

THE OTHER HALF OF ME

As the day goes by I follow the clouds moving through the sky
And I don't know how I look for myself overseas

'Cause now I've found, the other half of me starting to think, where I wanna be Though I'm not sure, what will I see wondering how it may be

And these roads I've known have filled me with old safe memories And though here I've grown maybe it's not where I'm gonna be maybe it's not where I'll be

'Cause now I've found, the other half of me
starting to think, where I wanna be
wondering how it may be

Some things may go wrong make me wanna turn around, turn around maybe, run back home

Some sounds will be loud lost someplace inside the crowd, inside the crowd how do I get out?

So the day went by night and day touch and draw a line

And now I've found, the other half of me
starting to think, where I wanna be
Like a circle drawn down by my old black pen
Some things will end where they began

And now I've found the other half of me
starting to think where I wanna be
Like a circle drawn down by my old black pen
Some things will end where they began
Some things will end where they began
